THE LIFE OF A FRENCH GIRL.

The following it a well known phy sician's story: He had gone to visi one of his lady patients, but found her out. But her daughter, a girl of 15, was snugly coiled on the sofa, so deeply interested in a book that she did not even perceive the visitor's presence. "What are you reading, my dear, that interests you so much?' asked the doctor. "A book that papa has forbidden mamma to read, and which is going back to the library by and by." Tost girl was probably brought up in the old-fashioned way. Notwithstanding her age, she had never been in the street by herself. When she went out of doors to take a musto or other lesson, the maid ac-compenied her. On her constitutionals the mother mounted guard on one side, the father imposing as the beadle of the Madeleine on the other. The girl's instructions were to look neither to the left nor to the right, to walk straight, to turn her head away or drop her evelids when a stranger glanced at her;" to reply in monosyllables when addressed by her parents' friends. From time to time she encycl a morning stroll through the Jardin des Plantes or d'Acclimation, and a lesson of zoology with the children. The bronze statuary in the former were avoided at any cost. Of carpet dances with her little friends, of pantomimes and good classical concerts, not a whisper. To bed regularly at half-past eight; now and then, for a treat, at ten. At Berlin wool-work in the drawing room with her mother when there are no guests. Rescons of providence have probably made her an only chits. It she had a little brother he is packed off to college at swen. Such books as she is given to read are either mawkish or dreary. Adventures and travel are for boys. They discuss questions young girl should know nothing of; the illustrations lack the philosophy of clothes, perhaps; a cat or a bird, a collie dog or poodle to scamper acro s the Bois de Bolcgne which is out of the question. The exercise would spoil the young lady's toilet; she might run herself into a perspiration, and catch cold afterward. Of education in the best acceptation of the term, she has none. She is to be betrothed at last to a young min, or, more likely, to a middle-aged one, upon whom she has never set eyes until be stands confessed as her future husband, and she marries him as her mother married ber lather, She thinks no more of opposing her parents' wishes than did the former. Why should she? Ten shances to one she has never spoken to any male being short of fitty, since in most bourgeois families where there is a marriageable daughter, male cousine. be they the veriest laute, are held at bay, uniess they are ostentatiously encouraged in their visits. In the atter case you may take the father's banker's book for granted; but even the young people are never allowed to be alone.-London Globe.

No Whiskey!

Brown's Iron Bitters is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

Brown's Iron BITTERS is guaranteed to be a nonintoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron

Brown's Iron Bitters has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy ando permanent relief.

MAGIC POWER!

A Secret Agent at Work.

We were surprised the other day to learn that certain individuals in this city, who had for many years yielded to what was apparently an inevitable fate, were startled from their torpid condition of semi-stupidity, into ascerting their right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happi-ness." These parties had been bound by an influence as powerful as it was incom-prehensible. They knew not the cause, yet they were victims to the result. They were enchained, but they could not discern by what means they had been manacied. They had long sought deliver-ance in vain. Their appeals to science and the knowledge contained in books were equally unavailing. At last, relief came. It was not through any action of the President, or of Congress, for their trouble was not of a political character. Neither did the Governor's message relieve them, nor any action of the new Legislature, for it was out of their power and foreign to their jurisdiction. Yet they were suddenly and effectually re-lessed from the bondage they suffered, and placed on the equal scale of human happiness. "What was their trouble?" is what our readers will sak. They had been rendered helpless by that universal enemy—rheumatism. They had not walked or even moved without pain for years, and on the strong recommendations of friends "who had been there," they tried Britannia, and were at once relieved and radically cured. Britannia is what did it. It acted like a magic power. This secret sgent quietly coursed through their veins, removed the cause of the trouble, liberated the captives from their doomed condition, and now they congratulate each other on the accomplishment of such a triumph, and the sequisition of the knowledge, by which they can at any time resist the encroachments of their common foe.
